

Attorney Docket: 2682/102

Self-Retaining Retractor

Abstract

A disclosed retraction device for gynecological surgery on a patient comprises, in one 5 embodiment according to the invention, a frame hinged on a handle, the frame comprising a track; and at least one retractor slidably mounted on the track by a jig that does not contact the patient. The retraction device may be capable of being retained in position for surgery by the weight of the patient.